Olympic champ

Owens at assembly

Jesse Owens, former Olympic champion, will speak at the Forum Assembly today at 10 a.m. in the Smith Fieldhouse.

Acclaimed in 1960 as "Champion of the Century," Owens is currently making public appearances before youth groups, civic meetings, PTA's, and sports banquets at various schools and colleges throughout the country.

Professionally he is doing business as JESSE OWENS, INC., a Public Relations and Consultant Firm, which also operates a Consumer Market and Research Service.

In 1955, the U.S. State Department delegated Owens as America's Ambassador of Sports" and sent him on a two month good-will tour of The Far East. The following year he went to Australia as one of the personal representatives of President Eisenhower at the 16th Olympics.

Owens' athletic career began in 1928 at Cleveland, Ohio, where he set new world records for junior high schools by jumping 6 feet even in the high jump, and 22 feet 1 1/8 inches in the broad jump.

During his high school days in Cleveland, Owens won all of the major track events, including the State championship for three consecutive years.

At the National Inter-scholastic School meet in Chicago, during his senior year, he set a new world record for high schools by running the 100 yard dash in 9.4 seconds to tie the accepted world record, and he created a world record in the 220 yard dash by running the distance in 20.7 seconds. A week earlier he had set a new world record in the broad jump by jumping 24 feet 1 1/8 inches.

During his freshman year at Ohio State University, Owens set a world record in the 60 meters at 6.2 seconds and created a new record of 6.1 seconds in the 60 yard dash.

As a sophomore, he had the distinction of being the only track and field athlete in history to set three world records and to tie a fourth in a single track meet. He ran the 100-yard dash in 9.4 seconds to tie the world's record and set world's records in the 220 yard dash at 20.2 seconds, the 220 low hurdles at 22.6 seconds and the broad jump at 26 feet 8 1/4 inches.

At the 1936 Olympic games held in Berlin, Germany, Owens gained international distinction with a dramatic feat by setting-new Olympic records, in winning individual titles in the 100-meters, 200-meters and broad jump.

Dean of students gets new 'student life' title

By ROGER AYLWORTH
Universe Staff Writer

J. Elliott Cameron, dean of students, has undergone a change of title, according to President Dallin H. Oaks. The position will now be entitled Dean of Student Life, it was announced this week.

Cameron said the title change was made because, "it's more descriptive of the responsibilities that this office has."

He also went on to say that the title change does not indicate a change in his duties but more a change in their emphasis. Research has shown that the student has changed and that the university's services must change to meet the new demands, according to Cameron.

A LONG WITH change in Cameron's title comes a reorganization creating three new assistant dean positions as part of his office.

Cameron

Gary Carver has become the assistant dean of services. This position places Carver in charge of university and academic standards, veterans and selective service, discontinuances as well as the international students.

He characterizes his new position as "one member of an administrative team." Carver, the dean and assistant deans, will be working together each with a specific responsibility and all with general responsibility for the others.

HE SAYS he hopes to meet the student needs in a more effective manner and in less of a "repair shop function."

As a result of the administrative reshuffling Dr. David M. Sorensen, who has been assistant dean, is now in charge of the health center and the counseling center.

Sorenson remarked that there is going to be "a change of philosophy in the whole student personnel area."

He said that the focus will be on the positive development of all students not just those who come into counseling.

TO FACILITATE this change the counseling center has been re-named the Personnel Development Center.

Sorenson went on to say, "There are many students who need help and don't ask for it."

He says there are plans to open classes to help students to learn to "cope" with being lonely, parental problems, the lack of dates and the whole range of human problems.

According to Sorensen, part of the reason people do not go to counseling for help is the stigma that "only crazy people" go to counseling. He hopes to change this image.

CONCERNING the changes being made in the Personnel Development Center, President Dallin Oaks remarked, "It's an attempt to do better what we've been doing in the past. The changes have been suggested and are being initiated by the counseling center itself. It's not being imposed on the center."

He described the new programs as a "creative thrust by the center under the direction of the dean of student life, the assistant dean who has that responsibility and the director of the counseling center."

Lyle Curtis, who has been an assistant dean for more than a year, will be in charge of student government, student activities, student organizations and orientations.

9,000 try for game tickets

The decisions were made, the bets placed, the barrel has been churned, and whether or not you won in the Lottery Game of tickets is revealed on pg. 12 of today's Universe.

Nine thousand people vied for three thousand seats. Those, at least for the Arizona State Game, were the odds.

Sid Thulin of the Athletics Office said that the results of the drawing left about 6000 requests vacant. However, "if they signed up for block seating, there is still a chance that they can get in."

In the same breath Thulin said that he estimated some 12,000 seats were requested for block seating, while some 6400 seats would be available. "We'll just have to count up all the requests, and then divide each list proportionately, so that we can distribute to all the groups equally."

"There are clubs and other organizations that I've never heard of," said Thulin, "like, 'The Society of Concerned Citizens for the Preservation of the Australian Wombat.' There are also some groups that didn't even bother to let us know who they were."

According to Thulin, there will be three lines in the distribution location for block seating. One will be for campus clubs, one for the words, and one for the rest which don't fall under the above.

Thulin said, "It looks like we'll fill up for the Arizona State game, but anyone who doesn't get a ticket can come to the game, with a chance to get a seat, even that late."

nor snow...

... nor fear of back row seats has stopped the response for mail order tickets for the Carpenters' Concert, Jan. 14. Requests cannot be postmarked after today. Bob Moss, director of ticket distribution in the ELWC Business Office reports that he received nearly 1,550 letters yesterday, each containing from two to four ticket requests. It is expected that 3,000 to 4,000 tickets will remain to go on sale Monday. Some "limited vision" seats will be sold Monday for section L and LL. These will provide a side view limited by the extended stage set-up.

Men facing damsel draft

The men are once again faced with a lottery.

Only this lottery will be based with the popular men in mind, for preference week, held Feb. 6 to 11.

A lottery based on the girls' student numbers will be held January 8. The results will designate the time each girl will be allowed to pull the card bearing her date's name. The results will be announced over KEYY radio at 5 p.m.

For preferring the dance and concert will take place on Jan. 12 and 13 from 7 to 9 p.m., and Saturday, Jan. 15, from 9 to 12 a.m. Late preferring will be held on Jan. 17 through finals week.

A diamond ring preferring will be held for all those who are engaged or married. This allows these particular cords to prefer early.

All preferring will take place in the Wilkinson Center. Activity cards will be needed to prefer, and ten cents to cover mailing of the invitations.

Tomorrow is drop deadline

The last day to withdraw from class for non-academic emergencies is tomorrow. Students may not withdraw from any class for any reason after Friday.

According to Kay Harwood, assistant registrar, in order for a student to qualify for withdrawal, he must be involved in an emergency he couldn't foresee. The emergency must be of a non-academic nature, such as a car accident or severe illness.

The cost for each class dropped is $5.00. It is recommended that the deadline is necessary so that students and teachers will have a two-week period to prepare for final grades, and spring semester registration.

Foreign students to register addresses

Foreign students must register their addresses with the Federal Government according to the Foreign Students Office.

Forms are available at all Post Offices and must be returned by January 31.

Failure to register could result in a fine and imprisonment. A valid excuse will be needed to avoid deportation.

Alien Report Cards can be returned to the Post Office or Immigration and Naturalization Service offices.

Ombudsman

By MIKE BUSH

Note: the Ombudsman helps students in solving problems of an administrative or "bureaucrat" nature which students have been unsuccessful in handling themselves. For help, see the Ombudsman in 449 ELWC, write to that address, or call his 24-hour answering service at 374-1211, ext. 4132.

Cruelty to Animals?

Our dog got loose while my wife and I were at school on Nov. 5. We contacted the Orem and Provo Police Depts., and pounds with no luck. On Nov. 22, I got a summons to appear in Orem City Court to answer a complaint of extreme cruelty to the dog. We had given the dog up as lost or stolen. What action should be taken?

The case was sent to a local attorney who in turn took the case to the district attorney. Charges were then dismissed.

Health Center

About two weeks ago I was injured playing football. I was driven to the Health Center and received poor attention. The primary attitude of the personnel seemed to be quite apathetic. After much delay (overnight), it was decided that I needed an operation. Can something be done about this poor service?

The case was presented to the Health Center Staff. This and similar complaints registered at the meeting proved successful in generating profitable discussion, questions, and feedback by almost everyone in attendance. Channels of communication were opened and an atmosphere of constructive criticism for rational and objective reasoning developed. The discussion was entitled: "How can the Health Center employees show they care?"

Research projects aid farmers

An 11-month-old mother? Adding fat to food? These are some of the projects of two graduate students in BYU's Animal Science Department.

Ed Schoppe, a graduate student in animal science from Provo, is involved in a research project with Suffolk sheep. In these sheep, sexual maturity is correlated with size. Under an accelerated growth program, rams and ewes as young as 11 months are able to breed and reproduce. Ed's problem is that the accelerated growth causes the sheep's legs to bend. He is presently comparing the bones of normal sheep and sheep in the accelerated growth program to find a solution to this problem.

Another graduate student in animal science, Doug Kunz from Ogden, is trying to find a way to raise veal calves on grain instead of their traditional milk diet and still maintain the same quality and taste of veal. This involves reducing the iron level and increasing the fat content of the grain since milk is lower in iron but higher in fat than grain. The average savings to the farmer is a reduction from $108 feeding a calf on the milk diet to $16 on the grain diet over approximately a 16-week period.

Girl named president

Women's lib has triumphed, at least in the field of student nursing.

Marilyn Maxfield, a senior in nursing from Provo, was elected president of the National Student Nurses Association over her only opponent, a male from Boston. Marilyn was elected on the basis of her extemporaneous speaking ability and general leadership qualities. The votes of 94 delegates from state and local student nursing associations.

According to Marilyn, there are 40,000 women and men, although the men are in the minority, in student nursing in the United States.

As president, Marilyn is involved in a group called "Breakthrough," which is interested in bringing minority groups (legitimate ones) into nursing.

Peace Corps worker heads committee

Alan Eugene Hall, a former Peace Corps worker in Bahia, Brazil, is now president of the Graduate Steering Committee at BYU.

The committee, first formed last year, is composed of graduate students representing each of the 13 colleges at BYU. Alan, a graduate student in the M.B.A. program from Ogden, was elected president of the committee last fall. As president, he acts as liaison between all the graduate students at BYU and student government and the administration.

The committee this year has arranged "brown bag" sessions in which small groups of students meet during lunch with their professors for informal discussions. Alan is also trying to get a grievance committee for graduate students going which will take on such issues as library privileges and a bookstore discount for graduate students.

Mann to talk on environmental politics

"Politics of the Environment" will be the topic of a speech given by Dr. Dean Mann in tomorrow's Political Science Lecture Series at 11 a.m. in 184 JK8.

Sponsored by the ASBYU Academics Office and the Political Science Dept., Mann is chairman of the Political Science Dept. at the University of California at Santa Barbara.

A Congressional Fellow and former senior staff member of the Brookings Institution, Mann has published widely in the field of environmental studies.

Space shuttle developed

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — President Nixon yesterday gave the order for development of a $5.5 billion space shuttle which he said would "transform the space frontier of the 1970's into familiar territory."

The shuttle will be developed over the next six years, to be used repeatedly up to 100 times to ferry men and freight to and from orbits around the earth.

In a short it will go a long way toward delivering the rich benefits of practical space utilization and the valuable spinoffs from man's efforts into the dark of Americans and all people," Nixon said.

The President made the comments in a written statement issued after a 45-minute meeting with James Fletcher, head of the National Aeronautics and Space administration, and his deputy, George M. Low.

Fletcher told newsmen that 500 aerospace workers would be directly employed in development of the space shuttle. That is only about 25 per cent of the jobs that were started in aerospace industry in recent years, but he said it would at least make a start in restoring the aerospace industry to health.

Fletcher said the project will have other military uses—the shuttle could be put into orbit on between 24 and 48 hours notice—but he said NASA will stress civilian applications in global communications, inspection of flood or earthquake damage and aiding airline navigation.

"This program will be open to all nations of the world," Fletcher said.

"The program will be open to all nations of the world," Fletcher said.

Classified information leaks

NEW YORK (UPI) — Syndicated columnist Jack Anderson said yesterday he is being fed classified information by several high Nixon administration sources who believe the new government does not have a right to lie.

Defending his publication of some of the information on the grounds that no military security is involved, Anderson said in a taped CBS-TV interview that he is in possession of "dozens" of documents proving that the government "was doing one thing and telling the American people another thing" during the recent India-Pakistan conflict.

He said he has "a rather complete set of secret documents" relating to the Bangladesh crisis.

"I continue to get documents and I'll continue to publish them because I believe that it's in the public interest to do so," he said.

Aerospace wage

increase rejected

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In what its labor members called "a tragic day for the American system of free collective bargaining," the Pay Board voted 9 to 5 yesterday against allowing a 12 per cent annual wage increase for 250,000 aerospace workers.

"This is a naked power attempt by industry members and unfortunately supported by public members, to try and pick out one industry and make it an example," said President Leonard Woodcock of the United Auto Workers and one of the board's five labor members.

The 5-member Pay Board has been considering 9-month pay raises proposed in five space industry contracts for weeks and yesterday's vote came on a motion by the labor members to approve the full 12 per cent.

Presidential hopefuls promises

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine promised yesterday that as soon as he became president he would withdraw from Indochina "as soon as possible" and would not provide military aid for a proxy war in Vietnam.

Muskie set only two conditions for "as close to an immediate withdrawal as possible"—the safe return of American troops and the release of U.S. prisoners of war. He said that 24 hours after he announced his bid for the presidency, Muskie charged at a Capitol Hill news conference that President Nixon had failed to take the initiative in negotiating a withdrawal date tied to Muskie's two conditions.

"If the initiative were once taken, it could lead to our withdrawal very quickly," Muskie said.

FORMER SEN. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota told newsmen in a cramped hotel room that he would hold Muskie accountable for his stance on the war in 1968. He charged that Muskie refused to denounce Johnson administration war policies as the Democratic vice presidential candidate last year.

At a news conference in Washington, D.C., yesterday, Muskie said he expected to be held accountable for his every action in 25 years of public life.

ALSO AT THE CAPITOL, Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., began his campaign at a news conference in which he predicted he would beat Muskie not only in the New Hampshire primary March 7 but for the presidential nomination itself.

He criticized Muskie and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., who will declare his candidacy Monday, as adding to the party debt without helping pay off the $3.5 million Democratic deficit from 1968. He accused Muskie of making "canned" appeals for votes.

SEN. HENRY M. JACKSON, D-Wash., campaigning through the Florida Panhandle just south of the Alabama border, said he opposed mass pupil busing but favored school desegregation and equal state financing of all school districts.

"I'VE MADE mistakes. I've had reason to change my mind," Muskie said. "I think our involvement in Vietnam was wrong. I did not always think so. I do now."

Under questioning, Muskie conceded that some "transition aid" might be necessary for Vietnam, but he ruled out continued military aid as a means of carrying on the war after the United States leaves.

McCarthy said he did not know whether he would support the Democratic presidential nominee and did not eliminate the possibility of his heading a third or fourth party.

WITHIN HOURS after his news conference, Muskie left on a swing through the primary states of New Hampshire, Florida and Wisconsin. He said he would enter the first eight primaries—New Hampshire, Florida, Illinois, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania and Ohio—and added later that "there's a chance I might enter all primaries."

'American Pie' is new release

Who's Don McLean? He's the composer-performer-singer of one of the hottest singles since "Hey Jude" in a piece called "American Pie," and he's released an album of the same name on United Artists. He previously released two albums from a company called Mediart that went totally ignored. It seems that the public and the record industry have slighted a talented performer, but to have overlooked McLean's works is nearly sacrilege.

"American Pie," surprisingly, is not representative of the album. The lyrics of that particular song, as good as they are, barely give hint at the poetic language the other pieces contain, and there's only one other rock piece on the 10-song album.

United's been billing their new found genius as a poet-singer and that's no hype. What does he write about? A lover left behind, a false prophetess, a soldier giving up his life through insanity, and a friend that commits suicide are a few examples. There are oddities and things not so common but all punctuated with themes of religion, solitude, reflection and endings. McLean's material is preoccupied with endings and endings, faded, incomplete and resignedly accepted as it winds its way through shades of melancholy and solace. His lyrics come off like highly textured oil paintings rich in their description: "Flaming flowers that brightly blaze" or

"The rain fell like pearls on the leaves of the flowers"

"Leaving brown muddy clay where the earth had been dry."

The music is a mix of simply instrumented with acoustic guitar and piano work dominating, yet complex in their

Best theater in town

"How was the show?"

"Pretty good."

"Was it worth it?"

"No show is worth $2.25!"

He's right, especially an uncomfortable rated flick, in a theater with crowded foyers and high-priced snacks. But that's what we're getting at Provo Theatres.

Don't go back to the TV yet. There is a unique theatre in town.

The SCERA theatre in Orem is a community-conscious theatre. It specializes in family films (nothing but G or GP-rated movies), dips its prices so everyone can attend ($1.50 for adults, $1.25 for students, and $.50 for children), and still sells a five-cent candy bar (maybe the only theatre in the state to claim that honor).

SCERA stands for Sharon's Community Educational Recreational

Association and is literally run by the community. Ushers, cashiers and managers are all volunteer workers. The ten members of the Board of Directors, representing various parts of the community, are elected for three-year terms (Mr. M.D. Hunt, past president of the Orem Stake, is presently the chairman of the board).

The doors first opened in 1941 to the light green building which could almost pass for an adobe Spanish mission. Two years later the LDS Sharon Stake released it to the town for funding recreational projects. To this day, theatre profits go to building a community swimming pool, pavilion, parks and other facilities.

The SCERA is quite a contrast to its competitors. But it hasn't budged and we're glad.

Socialism

Editor:
Mr. Nixon's "United Socialists of America" was a very interesting "Comment," but I do not think he proves his point.

Socialism, as I understand it and as Webster understands it, is government ownership of the principal means of production. Thus, a truly socialist government would have to own and run us (we run the Post Office), the railway industry, the airlines, the steel industry, the auto industry, etc. The U.S. government does not qualify.

Socialism can be despotic. Controlling the means of livelihood, one may exert unfair pressure on labor to support his policies or suffer the consequences in the pay check. But socialism also may be democratic, as in England or Italy or Germany.

Unregulated capitalism can be just as despotic. Would Mr. Nixon have us return to the laissez-faire days of President John D. Rockefeler? Or Governor J. P. Morgan? In fact, they pocketed their profits by fixing prices. Squeezing out the small competitor in price varies only to the prices unrealistically once the threat of competition was squelched, exploding the last straw to make him quit.

The Attorney General has taken a lot more work to make this system as flexible as possible—especially with no minimum blocking settings.

I would like to thank the student body for their patience and willingness to wait with this new ticket policy. We are very sorry that the time constraints were such that everyone didn't have at least a day's notice on how and when the lottery would work for Friday's game. I assure everyone that we did the best we possibly can to work out the flaws. I'm really sorry that the lottery closing time was announced at both 5:30 and 4 p.m., when the lottery actually closed at 4. That was a happenstance.

The Attention Office has taken on a lot more work to make this system as flexible as possible—especially with no minimum blocking settings.

I would like to thank Randy Peterson and George H. Clegg, assessments, who worked all through Christmas vacation to get the boxes made and everything organized.

I'm sorry I'll be gone for the weekend—my wife is having surgery in Denver. But we'll do everything we can to make this work as smoothly and available as possible.

We appreciate your suggestions and support.

must lead either to the forcible subjection of those abused or regulation of that privilege. Woodrow Wilson received authority to socialize or nationalize the railways way back in World War I. But they are still in private hands, thanks to the regulation of the railroads.

Perhaps the word "socialism" has a bad connotation among Americans, especially Mormons. (Although the failure of the Socialist Party to capture the Presidency does not prove that the general idea is wrong.)

Government subsidized the railways from the beginning. Yet the railroads were controlled by a minority over the majority, and the government had over the tycoons. Only after the threat posed to economic democracy was made clear to the people were regulations imposed. Abuse of any privilege is likely to lead to the ultimate regulation.

I reject the premise that government subsidy or regulation always leads to government ownership which necessarily leads to despotism for communism; as Elder Benson would put it).

over a thousand miles to come to BYU to purchase a yummy "BYU Brownie," there were none to be had! Where has tradition gone?

— Gregory S. Hill

Yummy, yummy

We asked several of the "new" students, "Where have all the brownies gone?" They looked at us as though we were absolute alumnae. We looked in every vending machine on campus—alas, there were none. (We were even told to go to the dorms to get them.)

However, there was a brownie in the BYU Brownie booth, and that had probably because you forgot one greater tradition: BYU food services are closed on Sunday.

Ice-skating

Editor:

We would like to suggest a use for the recent ice skating classes offered from the 7-11 store. Request that it be dried and flooded for the skating pleasure of the BYU students, and other skating enthusiasts. A minimal charge for ice-skating and a food service vendor could be set up to help cover expenses.

We believe this would be enjoyable to the students, and a worthwhile project for consideration, and in so stating this suggestion we sign our names in support.

A Senate subcommittee which held hearings on the laundry detergent controversy at the last has issued a report recommending that housewives go back to using plain old soap.

A fat lot of good that will do!

The average Senate subcommittee report doesn't even swing any weight with Senators. Including members of the subcommittee. So you can imagine how much influence it is likely to have on Congress.

This is particularly true of a trend in washday products, which is something like trying to reverse the flow of Niagara Falls.

Lighter side

Return to plain old soap

THE ONLY way a return to laundry soap can be accomplished is by the same method that caused housewives to abandon soap in the first place.

And why did housewives switch to detergents? The archives show it was to achieve an extra degree of whiteness in their wash.

Housewives were persuaded by detergent makers that whiteness was synonymous with joyousness. Hot competition then developed over who could hand the whitest wash on the line and thus reach the highest peak of exultation.

Even housewives who had indoor electric dryers began hanging their wash on the line. Clothes that failed to measure up to the neighborhood witness standard were hung upside down, which is the universal symbol of distress.

TYPICAL scene:

Mrs. Goombah: "Land o'goeshen, Mrs. Murphy, your husband's shirts are the whitest on the block!"

Mrs. Murphy: "Yeah, but they were blue before I washed them."

More, much more, than a subcommittee report will be needed to lick the whiteness build-up.

Makers of soap chips, flakes and granules must undertake a massive campaign to convince housewives that a certain amount of dinginess is cause for jubilation that is even more exalting than the joyousness of whiteness.

Suggested approach:

Mrs. Goombah: "Land sakes, Mrs. Murphy, you've got the most lacklusterwash on the block. How did you ever make your husband's shirts look so leaden and filmy?"

Mrs. Murphy: "I'll let you in on a little secret, Mrs. Goombah. I use Overcast, the new miracle laundry soap that contains twice the dulling power of ordinary soap."

Shame on you

By MARK SKOUSEN

"Startling!" "Embarrassing!" "Shameful!" are some of the negative comments. "Healthy!" "Great!" "Good sex education!" are some of the favorable responses. What is it? BYU's Nursery School on lower campus provides bathroom facilities within the classroom itself and for both sexes together. Some of you might expect an exclamation point after that last sentence, but not the Nursery School.

Mrs. Frances Barlow, assistant professor of Child Development, who has worked in the nursery for 24 years, finds "integrated" facilities for nursery age children to be "very healthy." She adds that such a policy has been recommended for years by all leaders in child development.

Mrs. Barlow feels that "when you make something secret, you create curiosity." She recounts a case where a boy was going behind the bushes to show classmates his "secret." Problems like that no longer exist, she maintains, because of the new, more open approach. Children seem to act natural and unaffected, with no embarrassment. Only one parent has ever complained, recalls Mrs. Barlow, and she took her child elsewhere. Embarrassment seems to be particular to adults, not the children.

A victory for Women's Lib! Or just good child psychology? We'll leave it up to you.

-Well, do you know when he'll be back?

No.

-No, I sure don't.

-You just live there, right?

-Uh?

-Thanks anyway. Good-bye.

Remember the fellow who wrote in about the fact that McDonald's doesn't serve the Uncola. Well, we found something even more perplexing. McDonald's sells cheeseburgers for a quarter, but they also offer their special "Double Cheeseburger," which doubles everything except for buns, for a sneaky 49 cents. And that's a bargain?

On 15 October 1971 a group of 16 lawyers, writers, and academicians brought to the public's attention a proposal that has been lurking in the political shadows for some time—that amnesty be granted to the 70,000 Americans who fled American soil to avoid the draft along with the over 500 Americans currently serving sentences for draft evasion. The group also urged amnesty for military deserters who fled to avoid service in Vietnam. Since this date, the movement has grown.

Against the movement are President Nixon, Utah governor Calvin Rampton, and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, all of whom have denounced the plan for amnesty in public statements. Nixon states that as long as one serviceman or POW remains in Vietnam, he will grant no amnesty as it is only fair that those who chose to serve should come home first. Most vocal of the group has been the VFW whose position is that granting amnesty to draft resisters "would be an insult to every American veteran and his family."

IN FAVOR of amnesty is Ohio's Republican Senator, Robert Taft who has

What about amnesty?

By BRIGHAM S. SHULER

introduced a bill to provide limited amnesty to draft resisters who agree to serve three years in the military or some federal agency. Taft has been joined in the sponsorship of his bill by Utah Senator Frank Moss giving the bill a bi-partisan flavor which will be very hard to swallow in the emotions of the coming election year.

America has extended amnesty before on an individual basis. Following World War II and Korea, a Presidential Commission was set up to rule on individual cases. They approved only a token number of applications.

Granting of amnesty is a custom that predates the birth of Christ. The age of the custom notwithstanding, the operation of the process has a foul odor about it. Amnesty is the government equivalent of forgiveness and should operate similar to the law of repentance.

ought to be most wary of such claims. Not just because of a certain attachment to the past and its amenities, but because of a merited suspicion of inflated figures. If things are so good, why do people feel so bad? If one must use statistics, the Harris Poll shows that a great many Americans feel the quality of life in this country has grown worse, not better, over the past decade.

THESE glowing reports of the ever higher Gross National Product and the ever better life are welcome, but not very convincing inside. To quote the President's perceptive comment in a State of the Union address not too long ago: "Never has a nation seemed to have more and enjoyed it less." Maybe because the

(In case you think we're unfairly picking on McDonald's, we add that Dee's does the very same thing. Did we hear anyone say "collusion"?)

The stigma of girls' wearing pants, even modest pants, is still with us. Secretaries, especially part-time, must wear a dress to work, while all other coeds are free to wear what they wish. Let's look at it from a practical point of view. Pants are more comfortable and less embarrassing, not to mention that they warm the legs. Ask the girls who work in the hobby shop.

amnesty forsakes their resistance to civil authority, or do they believe they can obey some laws and reject others?

The people who fled American soil and deserted the military were not mentally deficient or suffering from prolonged adolescence. In all of their vituperative rhetoric, they have judged themselves to be mature, intelligent, and adult. So now let them reap what they have sown. I do not favor amnesty, but if it must be, let it be a conditional amnesty supervised by a Presidential Commission where people who desire to receive amnesty may, upon application, be permitted to reenter this country to enlist in the Armed Forces. Then upon fulfillment of 24 months of honorable active service and with recommendation of the unit commander concerned, such person would be granted amnesty. For those who would not accept this plan, I would offer no alternative. For them, there are the courts to decide the validity of their claim. The time has come when we must put an end to senseless violations of the law by people who want to pick and choose what laws they will obey. There is no better place to start than with these people.

nation only seems to have more. The Gross National Product is well named: it really is a gross standard by which to measure the well-being of a nation and the general quality of its civilization. It counts the good and the bad, the genuine and the phony, the necessities and the knick-nacks, and totes them all up in this same indiscriminate column.

What conservative worthy of the name is going to believe statistics over experience? Is it really joining the Disaster Lobby to ask that we go beyond the GNP and measure the value of what is being sacrificed agains what is being produced? Or isn't that instead the essence of being a conservative? To be a conservative is not just to echo the demands of corporate interests—though that description might fit the ideas of some liberals. Conservatives ought to be wary of bearing out that description by joining any general offensive against the ecology.

People Eaters win football title

They should have called it the "snow" bowl. Last night's intramural championship football game saw two fine teams, the Tau Sigs and the People Eaters, wage a hard fought encounter, with the PPE's coming out on top, 13-7. The game was played in cold, 25 degree weather on a snow covered field. In the opening moments, Stu Case and Bill Thomas picked off passes for the Tau Sigs, while Dane Iorg had an acrobatic catch for the PPE.

A second Case set up the first Tau Sig score, tallied on an end around run by quarterback Tom Parry. The Tau Sigs converted to take a 7-0 lead on a pass from Terry Jones to Parry.

The PPE's then got on the board quickly with a beautiful long pass from QB Dane Iorg to Tim Rohner. The conversion failed, so the Tau Sigs still nursed a one point lead at half time.

Davis develops mat champions

By NEVA MATHews

This week-end gives wrestling coach Fred Davis a double opportunity to show the home student body what prowess his mat masters have developed. Colorado State comes to Provo Friday at 2 p.m., and Utah State is slated to arrive Saturday at 2 p.m., as the team heads into its heaviest season's scheduling.

Coch Davis, who came to BYU from Oklahoma eight seasons ago, saw WAC wrestling organized that fall of '65. Since then, he has led his team to five WAC championships in seven years, produced 21 individual champions and amassed a dual match record of 85-23-3.

Fred Davis

When team members were asked about their coach's philosophy, two-time WAC champion Rorodio Fehlberg said, "He coaches to win by points. We do exactly what he says, give it everything we've got to gain his respect and it gets us where we are."

A champion in his own right, Coach Davis won the 1956 NCAA individual title in the 167-1b. class. Considering the quality of men the consistently reputable team, Coach Davis replied, "Championship wrestlers are seldom pinned but can be outscored by the clever wrestler. We teach our men to go with the force in wrestling you wrestle with the attitude of winning."

Denver Relays

The BYU swimming team will open 1972 in Denver this week competing in the Denver Relays Saturday. Judging from their last outing, the Cougars should be ready to compete.

Coach Walt Cryer's squad finished second to Southern California's Trojans in the West Coast Relays the last time out. Cryer is hopeful that his squad will pick up where they left off before the long holiday break.

BYU relay teams put on a good performance in 400 butterfly, 800 freestyle and 800 intermediate medley in California and should challenge in these events in Denver.

BYU divers finished ahead of the pack in a field of 35 entrants in the one and three meter diving events. Sam Cumrow finished first in both events, while Jim Whytlay took a second and a third. Mission returns John Wolfgram was second in the night before against Long Beach, finishing third in both events.

If the Cougars can match their December showing in California, they could come out on top in the Denver Relays and prepare to challenge for this year's WAC swimming crown.

With play-offs now underway, the championships for the women's intramural ten-stake volleyball are scheduled to be settled Saturday, Jan. 8 from 9 a.m. to noon in the Richards Building. The all-school women's volleyball play-offs are scheduled for Saturday for Jan. 15.

A recent BYU graduate made quite a dent in his chosen profession when John Allen, a past BYU golfer and American, placed in the top 20 money-winners of 1971 according to a list released recently by the PGA.

Miller collected over $93,000 during the year, during the year, highlighted with a second place Masters finish and a Southern Open title.

Women's intramural table tennis entries are due January 7 at 5 p.m. Basketball entries are due January 14 at 5 p.m. Entries should be submitted to the intramural office in the Richards Building.

A basketball clinic which will discuss the new rules for women's basketball along with divisional and regional games in the games, is scheduled for January 12 from 6 to 8 p.m. in gym 146 of the Richards Building. All sports directors, team coaches, coordinators, and players are invited to attend.
